Airliner Shot Down By Communists

Pilot Says 2 MIG Fighters Fired On Plane

Three Of Six U. S. Citizens Rescued; 8 Others Missing

HONG KONG, Saturday, July 24 (AP)—Two Communist MIGs, believed piloted by Russians, shot down the C-54 airliner which plunged into the sea off Red-held Hainan Island Friday, the rescued pilot of the plane said Saturday. Eighteen persons, including six Americans, were aboard.

"We were attacked by two MIGs," Capt. Philip Blown told the United Press in a Hong Kong hospital. "I believe they were piloted by Russians. Our plane was badly shot up."

U. S. military officials said 10 survivors of the 18 passengers and crewmen aboard the Cathay Pacific Airlines plane have been brought to Hong Kong by two U. S. Air Force rescue planes.

The survivors flown here included three of the six American passengers, who were hospitalized with injuries.

The others aboard the plane were unaccounted for. They were presumed drowned or rescued by Communist boats sent putting out from Hainan, reported to be a big Red air and submarine base 180 miles east of Haiphong, Indo-China.

Pilot Blown was interviewed briefly when he was taken from the X-ray room of the hospital to the ward where survivors were being treated behind guarded doors. Blown's nose and left leg were bandaged.

Plainclothes police were stationed all over the hospital and British officials kept an official silence on the cause of the mystery crash.

The airliner was bound from Bangkok, Thailand to Hong Kong when the crash occurred. An armada of American and British planes went to the rescue and reported that boats from the Red

Auditors Critical Of Penitentiary Records-Keeping

BATON ROUGE, July 23 (AP)—An audit report today criticized bookkeeping procedures at the state penitentiary and wondered why the convict stores made money while stores for free personnel operated at a loss.

Records were "to a large extent kept in an unsatisfactory manner," the audit said, mainly because of a "lack of competent personnel in the accounting office, where most of the detail work was performed by inmates."

The report, over the signature of State Auditor Allison Kolb, covered the last two fiscal years, ending June 30, 1953.

During the period, convict stores showed a total profit of nearly $37,000, gaining the supervisor a pat on the back from auditors for an "outstanding job."

The free personnel store, on the other hand, showed a gross loss of 4 per cent in its retail operations, but auditors thought it should have grossed a profit of from 10 to 15 per cent.

The store showed a slight overall profit because it also wholesales to the convict stores.

Reason for the retail loss could "not be ascertained," the report said and noted that the Angola free store has been "unsatisfactory over a period of years, resulting in a change of management last September."

In other areas, the audit reported:

1. "Enough tires and tubes were used" last year to provide "two complete changes of tires and tubes for every truck and car in operation at the penitentiary."

2. Inmate costs dropped from $37.85 per year in 1950 to $25.10 in 1951.

3. In 1953, penitentiary operating costs increased because of equipment purchases and replacing inmate guards with paid personnel.

Burden Scores Heard Meeting With Educators

TALLULAH, July 23 (Special)—J. Charles Burden, Jr., Alexandria attorney, rapped out here today in a speech before the Better Government Organization of Tallulah at his opponent, C. Raymond Heard, "for entertaining parish superintendents at a meeting in Monroe."

Burden is a candidate for the state board of education from the third public service district composed of 28 north Louisiana parishes.

The Alexandria attorney said that he would like to make it clear that "I am not the hand-picked candidate of any individual, group or faction. I have offered myself as a candidate in the contest for the public good and have conducted a campaign at my own expense within the limitations of my means."

Burden said that his ultimate decision to run for office was precipitated by "urgent requests from good citizens in my home town of Alexandria, and in Natchitoches, Ruston, Shreveport and Monroe. These people," he said, "were disgusted that my opponent had used his position of honor to promote personal profit in transactions with state institutions and who were fed up with his meddling in the personal affairs of the institutions under the jurisdiction of the state board."

Burden said his opponent, C. Raymond Heard, "is guilty of placing his relatives in important posts for which they were obviously not qualified, all to the detriment of the schools and students. Check the record and this will be disclosed."

Burden remarked sharply that "while campaigning during the past several days in northeast Louisiana he had been reliably informed by friends in several parishes that Heard and a political henchman from Monroe had represented to a group of parish school superintendents that 'I was put into race at the last minute by the P.T.A. and the League of Women Voters.' The candidate said that this implication was a misrepresentation of fact

Anniston Mayor Sent To Prison For Tax Evasion

BIRMINGHAM, July 23 (AP)—The mayor of Anniston, Ala., was sentenced to prison today on a federal income tax evasion conviction.

U. S. Dist. Judge Seymour H. Lynne sentenced Mayor E. C. Lloyd to serve two 18-month terms, to run consecutively, and fined him $2,500. The court directed that he begin serving the sentence Oct. 10.

The mayor's attorneys filed a motion for a new trial and a hearing was set for July 30. Lloyd himself declined comment.

Lloyd, former operator of a large bakery, was convicted by a federal jury June 4. He was indicted two years ago by a federal grand jury on charges he evaded $18,074 in income taxes for 1945, 1946 and 1947. Prosecutors charged he concealed $63,000 in receipts from the bakery.

Lloyd testified he withheld $300 a week from the receipts and used the money to buy black market supplies of sugar, flour, lard and other supplies needed to keep the bakery in operation.

Moscow Bid For New Peace Talks Rejected By U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, challenging Russia's good faith, today rejected Moscow's bid for new talks on atomic weapons, Germany, Korea and Europe in the wake of the Geneva conference.

Russia will have to change its basic attitude, he said, before it would be profitable to discuss these major East-West deadlocks around the conference table.

At a news conference, Dulles said "prompt steps will be taken" to forge an anti-Communist alliance in Southeast Asia to block any further Red aggression in the area. Dulles said free nations could draw a defense line around not only countries bordering on Indochina but the non-Communist parts of Indochina itself even though they might not be members of the alliance.

"The important thing from now on is not to mourn the past but to seize the future opportunity to prevent the loss in Northern Vietnam from leading to the extension of communism throughout Southeast Asia and the Southwest Pacific," he said in a statement.

"If the free nations which have a stake in this area will now work together to avail themselves of present opportunities in the light of past experience, then the loss of the present may lead to a gain for the future."

Dulles met with reporters a few hours after Undersecretary Walter B. Smith returned from the Geneva Far East conference saying the partition of Indochina was the "best which we could have possibly obtained under the circumstances."

By a standing vote of 161-118, the House approved a provision designed to keep the Atomic Energy Commission out of the business of producing power for commercial purposes.

The administration bill, a broad revision of present atomic law, provides among other things for inviting private business into the field of atomic power for peaceful purposes. Administration men contend that is in accordance with the American system of free enterprise but their critics, mostly Democrats, argue that the bill is so drawn as to turn vast national atomic resources over to "private monopoly."

Last night, in the midst of its marathon session, the Senate dealt a blow to the administration on this issue. On motion of Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), it voted 45-41 to authorize the Atomic Energy Commission and other federal agencies to build plants big enough to produce power commercially. Cooperatives and publicly-owned utilities would get first call on any surplus power from such plants.

But when an identical amendment was offered in the House by Rep. Metcalf (D-Mont.), Eisenhower lieutenants in that chamber showed they were in complete control.

Quickly, the House ditched the Metcalf plan and substituted one by Rep. Cole (R-N.Y.), which declares in effect:

Unparalleled Ala. Military Coup Continues

Officials Ousted; 150 Heavily Armed Soldiers Take Over

PHENIX CITY, Ala., July 23 (AP)—Steel-helmeted National Guardsmen continued to hold troubled Phenix City in the tight grip of law and order today in a military occupation perhaps unparalleled in the nation's history.

An estimated 150 heavily armed troops, handpicked for their background of law enforcement training, took over the Phenix City Police Department and Russell County sheriff's office late yesterday, under limited martial law.

Sheriff Ralph Mathews, Police Chief Paul Daniel and all the officers under them were stripped of their badges and weapons and even their squad cars as National Guard soldiers and state highway patrolmen took over their duties.

Officials of the Council of State Governments in Washington said the action probably is unprecedented in U. S. history. Martial law has been proclaimed in times of disaster, but the Council said it knows of no similar situation where civilian officers have been disarmed by military authorities.

The dramatic declaration of martial rule, ordered by Gov. Gordon Persons "to suppress the state of lawlessness, intimidation, tumult and fear which reigns in Phenix City," came just five weeks after a gunman murdered vice crusader A. L. Patterson and touched off probably the greatest manhunt Alabama has ever seen.

Acting Atty. Gen. Bernard Sykes, directing the murder investigation, expressed hope today that the military rule will speed up the apprehension of the killer.

Patterson, who had won the Democratic nomination for Alabama's next attorney general on a pledge to rid the state of organized crime, was shot to death on the street just outside his office building the night of June 18.

Sykes told a news conference today that the imposition of military rule may quiet what he called "rumors" that people here have been afraid to tell what they might know about the killing for fear of reprisals.

Jes' Ramblin' fears he is losing caste. He has in the past refused to get mixed up with dogs in his column, but after a news item in the News-Star Wednesday told of a dog that jumped from the car of a Greenville, Miss., man, as it passed through Monroe, it seems that people got suddenly alerted to doings in Dogdom.

Thursday noon, R. M. Kettering, 205 Smith Ave., phoned that he had discovered the missing animal at the corner of DeSard and College Avenue, looking wistfully at the nearby college structures as if he'd like to be enrolled.

Anyway, the name of the owner, George H. Vincent on a tag, convinced that this was the missing animal. A phone call brought in short time the owner from Greenville.

A day earlier in the week, this column served to find a puppy to replace one killed by a car.

John Shows Up In East Germany

Intelligence Operations In All Germany Wrecked As Anti-Spy Head Deserts

BERLIN, July 23 (AP)—The Communists said tonight that Dr. Otto John, chief of West Germany's counter-part of the American FBI, had voluntarily gone over to East Germany.

They dramatically introduced a voice they said was John's.

The voice read on the East Berlin radio a statement saying he defected to the Reds for the purpose of working for German reunification.

John, called "the man with a thousand secrets" because he may know the inner workings of the West's whole intelligence network in East Germany as well as its counterespionage setup in West Germany, vanished from West Berlin Tuesday. As a result of his absence, Britain and the United States may have to overhaul their entire intelligence operation.

Only today the U. S. High Commission had charged he was "trapped or forced" into East Berlin by Communist agents.

The East Berlin broadcast tonight was the first word from the Communist side about him since his disappearance.

Germans in West Berlin said they were reasonably sure the

Growing Pains Of South Cited By Counselor

A professional industrial development counselor told north Louisiana business men last night that the South is experiencing the "greatest industrial revolution of all time" and mapped a program by which the Monroe area can "attract and secure new industry."

Harry W. Clark, executive director for the north Mississippi Industrial Development association, explained to members of the Ouachita parish association that the South is "like a 12 or 13 year old boy. . . we're in for a lot of growing pains."

The Ouachita parish group, described as "actually only about eight months old," is an organization incorporated as a business enterprise seeking and developing industrial prospects for this section. It is similar in scope and identical in purpose to the Mississippi association headed by Clark.

The speaker offered a four-point program for success in the effort to obtain new industry. "A complete local survey of resources which will attract industry; an organized effort on the part of the citizenry; the intelligent use of facilities available; and a definite policy of cooperation between all levels of existing industry and government."

Earlier, Robert C. Butz, head of the Ouachita corporation, had told of accomplishments made during the past eight months of operation. Said Butz:

"Our organization has begun a personal contact program which has carried our representatives to industrial centers, over 13,000 miles of northern and eastern country. We have personally discussed the merits of our area before industrial leaders and have listed nine potential prospects."

Butz said that "at least one of these nine, and possibly two, might have a definite announcement of Ouachita parish plans during the next eight months."

He explained that the Ouachita parish association "operates on a limited budget, with cut-to-the-bone advertising expenditures," but added that the Monroe message has been published in three national industrial magazines this year.

Among the guests, present for the banquet-type business meeting, were representatives from industry in Monroe, West Monroe and major towns throughout northeast Louisiana.

Jailed While Hitchhiking To Beaumont, Tex.

Tells Of Stuffing Body In Drawer At Indianapolis

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 23 (AP)—A pint-sized salesman confessed late Friday he strangled an 18-year-old girl in an Indianapolis hotel room and stuffed her body in a dresser drawer.

Victor Lively, 32, a roofing salesman arrested as he was hitchhiking to Texas, said he strangled Dorothy Poore after the two had argued about his drinking.

Deputy sheriffs at Clayton, where Lively was held until Indianapolis officers can return him to the scene of the crime, said he choked the girl for "about four minutes" before she collapsed.

He said he stuffed the body in a dresser drawer and left the Clayton Hotel where he had registered earlier under the name "Jack O'Shea."

His admissions came after three hours of questioning. He first said he had been in the hotel room but denied knowing the slain girl.

Under persistent questioning, however, he broke down and told how he met Miss Poore at a hamburger stand on Thursday, July 13. He said they began drinking and then went to his hotel room. There, Lively said, she protested against his continued drinking and after arguing with her for a time he choked her.

After leaving the hotel, Lively said, he returned to East St. Louis, Ill., where he was employed and stayed there until Thursday. When he was picked up he said he was on his way to Beaumont, Tex., to visit his foster mother.

Lively said he has been married six times and has a child in Texas.

Deputies Harold Rowland and Robert E. Wilkerson said they spotted Lively as he stood beside the highway because of his blue pants and yellow sports shirt. They drove past him for about half a mile before stopping to check their "wanted" lists. There they found Lively's preface description.

The deputies turned their car around and arrested the hitchhiker. He readily admitted he was Lively and was taken to the sheriff's office at Clayton. He was carrying a .32 caliber revolver wrapped in a newspaper but offered no resistance.

Miss Poore's body was found by a hotel maid on Sunday. Police said she had been dead since Thursday or Friday.

Election Today Decides Bitterly-Fought Contest For Texas Governorship

DALLAS, July 23—UP—The Democrats of Texas wound up the hottest, bitterest and most expensive campaign in years Friday night.

Voters will nominate Democratic candidates for governor, one U.S. Senate seat and 22 places in the national House of Representatives in a primary election Saturday.

It is primary election day for Republicans as well as Democrats. The Republicans offered a partial slate, but none of their statewide candidates was opposed. The chance of a Republican beating a Democrat in the general election in November is small.

The polls close in a total of 5,454 precincts in the state's 254 counties at 7 p.m. A total of 1,356,392 votes were cast in the Democratic gubernatorial primary in 1952.

The vote probably will be heavier Saturday, since the candidates have been waging such hot campaigns. The main contest was for governor, between incumbent Allan H. Shivers, running for a third term, and Ralph Yarborough, an Austin lawyer.

While urging each other to stop mud-slinging, they campaigned on issues ranging from the Congress of Industrial Organizations to the Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in public schools. Shivers beat Yarborough in 1952.

Yarborough has accused Shivers of being a "silver-spoon playboy" and has been calling attention loudly to a Lower Rio Grande Valley land deal in which Shivers made $425,000 profit on a $25,000 investment in less than seven months.

Shivers asked when it became "un-American" to make money and accused Yarborough of failing to guarantee that he is unequivocally for continued segregation in public schools.

Shivers also charged that the 125,000 members of the CIO had been ordered to contribute $2 each to beat him. CIO officials angrily denied this. Shivers leads the conservative branch of the party, which runs Democratic politics in Texas.

In 1952, he abdicated the Democratic party with his followers and joined Dwight D. Eisenhower's forces. Yarborough accused Shivers of being a traitor to the Democratic party.

Yarborough reported he had spent $100,668.84 on his campaign and Shivers reported total expenditures of $97,567.96. Two other Democratic candidates — J. J. Holmes of Austin and Arlon B. (Cyclone) Davis of Dallas — reported expenditures of $5,493.31 and $829, respectively. Davis, who has a long white beard, reported that his landlady had donated a "blue serge" suit, which enables him to "look like a governor."

In the race for the Senate, Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson was opposed by Dudley Dougherty, of Beville, Tex., who, at the age of 30 claims to have $5 million. Though Dougherty has been campaigning up and down the state, Johnson has ignored him.

Among candidates for nomination to the U.S. House of Representatives is Sam Rayburn, who went to Congress in 1913 and has been there ever since. He is expected to be renominated for another term Saturday.

and that he was an independent candidate and was serious about the office which he seeks as a matter of public trust. "While I welcome the support of these worthy organizations, Burden said, and other public spirited groups interested in keeping politics out of school system, they had nothing to do with my entering this race."

The Alexandria candidate, in closing his speech asked why had Heard prevented the state board of education from meeting with the joint fiscal committee of the legislature prior to the 1954 session to discuss college budgets, even though he was requested by both the committee and a majority of the state board members to call such a meeting.

Knew Son, 4, Dipped

And Smoked; Didn't Know He Drank, Too

CORINTH, Miss., July 23—UP—Four-year-old Roger Dale Butler was reported in "improved condition" Friday with pneumonia after being found drunk, soaking wet and unconscious outside his rural Alcorn county home.

The boy's father, Joe Butler, was arrested for public drunkenness and possessing liquor. County officers indicated they would seek to have charges of neglect placed against the father after Deputy C. L. Wilhilt said Butler's six-year-old son, Jerry, told him the father had given the younger boy "two swallows of corn liquor."

The boy told the deputy that the father had hidden the jug under a bed but Roger Dale found the whiskey and took more drinks. Officers said a half-gallon jug of "popskull" whiskey was found in the Butler home.

Wilhilt said the mother told him she didn't know her four-year-old drank whiskey, "but he's awful bad to smoke and dip snuff."

voice they heard on the radio was John's but could not be certain. West German officials in Bonn, who also had clung to the idea that John had been lured into East Berlin and kidnapped for his information, were astonished by the broadcast and refused to comment.

West Berlin police said they would continue their investigation of the case despite the broadcast, but they have leaned strongly to the theory that he had defected.

Just before the broadcast the East German Interior Ministry said the West German security chief had talked with "responsible personalities" in the Soviet controlled sector on July 20. He vanished that night.

John's friends had reported that he appeared depressed recently. The statement broadcast tonight implied he was disgruntled over his political fortunes.

"In the Federal Republic (West Germany) the basis for political activity has been withdrawn from me," the statement said. It added that his office had been under attack by "Nazis" and the federal interior minister had announced that after West Germany receives its full sovereignty the task of protecting security could be given to "persons who are really above all doubt."

In recent months Socialists in the West German Parliament had accused John of running his bureau like a "new Gestapo."

John headed an antiradical activities bureau known as the Federal Office for Protection of the Constitution. He has been under attack in the West German

Newsmen were barred from seeing most survivors at the hospital here. A sign was posted outside their ward, saying in both English and Chinese: "No visitors by order of the police."

The witnesses, who watched the Skymaster hit the water with one of its four engines burning, said they saw boats pick up at least three. If true, they probably are in Communist hands.

A Singapore report that three more had been picked up by a British flying boat proved erroneous. The British showed their concern by sending two top counterespionage agents to Berlin to investigate. Dispatches from London said the British have canceled the signal code system linking London with West German authorities as a precaution against the possibility John carried allied code books with him.

In Washington intelligence sources said John was not in a position to compromise American security. It was reported there that John did not have access to the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency's operational secrets and did not know the identity of American undercover agents. But the sources did not minimize the seriousness of the situation.

Teen-Ager Claims

Assault; Sheriff Labels It Phoney

D'LO, Miss., July 23—UP—Sheriff Garrett Mullins late today described the alleged rape of a 16-year-old girl as a "phoney."

"My findings are that the alleged rape of this girl at D'Lo is a phoney," the sheriff said in Mendenhall. "It's just a make believe."

Earlier today the girl told the sheriff she was raped in the basement of the high school by a man wearing a red bandana mask.

Her 16-year-old companion set off a hunt for a man by telling the D'Lo constable that the two girls went into the school to the rest room. They saw the masked man behind a door and he grabbed her, but she slipped away and ran for help.

When citizens arrived, they found the second girl in the basement, clothing badly torn.

tee investigations of the housing situation.

For weeks, the committee has been bringing out testimony that FHA guaranteed numerous loans for apartments at figures far above construction costs, with the builders pocketing the difference, to the extent of millions in what Byrd called windfall profits. Investigators say tenants pay higher rentals as a result.

It is evident, Byrd said, that such windfalls "are likely to have involved collusion."

The committee unfolded more testimony today that guaranteed mortgages exceeded construction costs by some $1,500,000 for four New Jersey apartments and by $367,000 for three others here in Washington.

Unless precautions are taken now, Byrd said, "the next major scandals may be expected" in slum clearance, where "irregular and illegal activities are spreading to local governments."

SPELLMAN VISITS PRESIDENT

search for more survivors was abandoned after sweeps of the area turned up nothing.

Three of those saved were Americans. The wife and daughter of one family were saved, but the husband and two young sons were among the missing.

They were the Leonard L. Parish family. They were flying from Bandoeng, Java, where they were living, to visit his parents in Iowa Park, Tex.

Mrs. Parish was in a Hong Kong hospital with a broken back. Her daughter, Valerie, 6, suffered severe cuts and bruises.

All the survivors were brought to Hong Kong hospitals for treatment for shock, bruises, cuts and other injuries. P. S. Thatcher of Stonington, Conn., the third American rescued, had a leg injury.

James C. Hagerty. It was in elaboration of a brief exchange of Hagerty's daily news conference.

Hagerty was asked at that conference whether the day-and-night Senate deliberations on the atomic dispute were delaying the President's program "too much." He replied then with a simple, "I don't believe so."

When stories quoting Hagerty along those lines got into afternoon newspapers, Hagerty's office distributed the following statement by telephone: "I was amazed to have my statement at the morning press conference interpreted in a way that gave the impression we are not concerned about the filibuster going on in the Senate."

"Of course, everyone here in the White House is concerned that such action is jeopardizing enactment of key items in the legislative program, among them extension of social security, extension of unemployment compensation, the farm program, tax relief, renegotiation of excess profits, the mutual security program and other important items."

Majority Leader Knowland of California asked several times for unanimous consent to limit the talkathon, only to meet with objections from the floor.

The only other courses, Knowland said, are cloture (limitation by a two-thirds vote of the Senate membership if the leadership can get it) or complete surrender "of the legislative function into the hands of those who will try to keep the Senate from functioning."

Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) objected to one proposal which would have limited the debate, beginning Monday, to two hours on each amendment and four hours on the bill itself.

The tired out stubborn opposition was unsuited by Knowland's offer to call off another night session and hold only a brief, routine session tomorrow if a limitation agreement could be reached.

United To Open Bids For New Building Aug. 11

The United Gas company has called for the opening of bids August 11 for construction of its downtown Monroe office building. Bids will be read at the headquarters for Smith and Padgett-Monroe architects, at 11 a.m.

The building, estimated to cost approximately $100,000, will be of fireproof material and of "artistic design." It will be a one story structure in the 300 block of Breard street.

This company has recently completed a million dollar service building on Louisville avenue and also this week has thrown open a large building in downtown West Monroe to serve customers across the river.

City Courts

MONROE

The following cases were disposed of yesterday in Monroe City Court by acting Judge J. Norman Coon: Jethro Newton, 30, Negro, Route 2, Choudrant, was fined $350 or 350 days for drunk driving and was fined $100 or 100 days for reckless driving.

Clinton Bailey, 23, Negro, was fined $350 or 350 days for drunk driving.

Robert Graves, 53, Oak Grove; Dude Stone, 43, City Jail; Herbert McCraney, 57, Negro, West Monroe; and Leon Davis, 33, Negro, were each fined $15 or seven days.

Internal Revenue Building To Be Built In State

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Rep. Hebert (D-La.) said today that a four-story air-conditioned building will be erected in New Orleans, La., for use by the internal revenue service.

Estimated cost of the structure, to be built by the Lowich Brothers of Waco, Tex., is $1,750,000. It is to be ready for occupancy by the spring of 1955.

Hebert said contracts for the work will be signed next week in Dallas, Tex., by Asher and Sander Lowich of Waco. The General Services Administration will represent the government in the transaction. Work is planned to start this fall.

The new structure is to be called the Ray Building, Hebert said, in memory of a brother of the building.

Rev. Gray Quota Luncheon Speaker

Rev. Wayne Gray, pastor of Covenant Presbyterian church and a past district governor for Louisiana Rotary clubs, told of "Rotary's Ideal of Service" Thursday noon in an address before a meeting of the Monroe Quota club at the Frances hotel.

Rev. Gray, a lifetime Rotarian, told of the origin of Rotary and traced the organization's growth from 1905 to the present. Rotary, according to the speaker, now boasts more than 8,000 clubs in 88 countries and more than 400,000 members.

"Rotary is a practical expression of Christianity," said Rev. Gray, "and the organization's ideal of service above self is helping to build better men, who can build a better world, which is the ultimate purpose of Rotary."

Mrs. John Collins, Quota president, introduced the club's guest, Mrs. Elizabeth Preston.

Conference On Civilian Defense Ends At Capital

BATON ROUGE, July 23 (AP)—The Louisiana Civil Defense Conference closed today with a discussion of how the state employment security division can recruit manpower for state, cities and parishes in large scale emergencies.

State civil defense director Francis A. Woolfley presided at the three-day conference which features the preparation of civil defense programs for a typical Louisiana city.

A. J. Robicheaux of the Employment Security Division said its state headquarters and local offices in some 20 cities would recruit and assign workers for rehabilitation and other emergency jobs at the request of civil defense officials.

At the morning session, the 65 civil defense workers and public officials prepared mutual aid and mobile support plans for the mythical city of Pleasant Hall.

A. T. Sanders, field representative of the Lake Charles area, and Clay Johnson of the Monroe area told the group cities attacked by the enemy must receive prompt and organized assistance in order to survive.

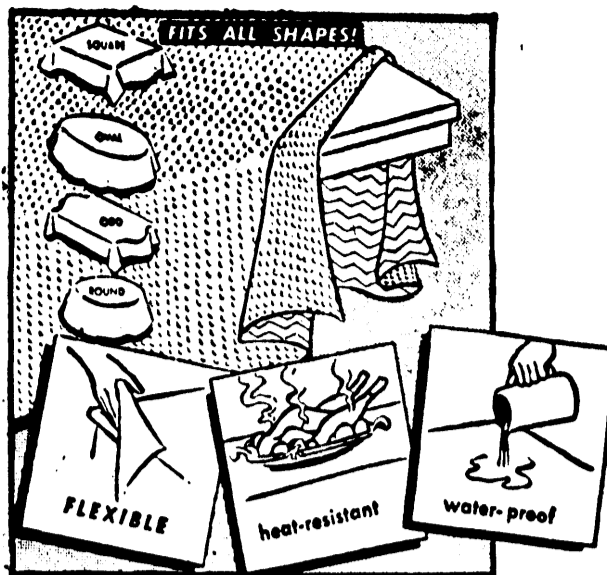

Disabled Army Veteran Held In Wife's Murder

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., July 23 (AP)—George Charles Hillyer, a tall, gaunt 57-year-old disabled war veteran, was charged with murder and held without bond here today following the slaying of his wife, Percie Sophia Hillyer, 61.

Police Sgt. Frank Doland found Mrs. Hillyer's smashed body, beaten almost beyond recognition, on a small bed in their home under pieces of chairs and a table and such household items as a coffee pot, toaster and grills off the kitchen range.

In oral and written statements given to sheriff's deputies and newsmen, Hillyer said it was his wife's "unladylike" actions, her failure to make a home for him and "the many injustices and humiliations heaped upon me for a long, long time" that drove him to beat her to death.

He said he and his wife had argued almost from the start of their marriage in 1923. Hillyer said he was a fancier of cats. And had 21 until yesterday, when he and his wife had moved to the house from an apartment. His wife, he said, didn't like the cats.

Political Poem

Thanks to Vincent D'Paul of the New York Daily News, this is presented to the people of the area for consideration. "Shine on, Private Schine, shine on. You'll win your spurs, I wager. Someday, you'll be a PFC. Under a fifth amendment Major!"

There Is No Alternative—

Republicans today are lamenting their coming fate in the onrushing fall elections.

Well might they hold these considerations in mind as the idea of November would seem to hold only ill winds for the future of the Republican Party. Perhaps, however, terrible and disastrous defeat at the polls might be a good thing for the party which has forgotten the very platform on which it was elected in 1952.

In many states, the "Citizens for Eisenhower" (the Advance) has won control of the party apparatus and is sending into the political arena candidates farther to the left than many of their Democrat opponents. The result in some of these states is near horror and political pandemonium.

Consider New Jersey. Clifford Case runs against a Democrat. Republicans by the droves are refusing to support this individual who is as far to the left as they come. Thus, the Jerseyites will possibly vote in a Democrat. The American people in 1952 voted in the GOP administration because they thought they were electing a new thing, a change for the better. Instead, they find to their disgust that more left-leaning than ever are in control of the government.

Defeat at the polls is on the way for the Republican party this fall unless several things are immediately done. The first is a pledge by the Republican administration and congressional leaders that foreign aid will be cut off to nations supporting the Communist enemy.

Second, that such foreign aid programs which are detrimental to the American people by helping others to out-produce the American workman will be re-examined and slashed.

Third, that a strong hand be taken in the domestic affairs as regards the Marxist menace. Fourth, that the farm situation be assisted in the United States before those in Brazil, Egypt and other nations are considered.

Fifth, a strong hand must be taken in foreign affairs. The administration must cease being led about by the British and the French. Sixth, the Eisenhower administration now controlled by the left wing "Advance" must throw off these shackles which tie it to the ADA and other leftward interests including numerous New York international banking sources.

Seventh, instead of blinking at the terrible world situation and putting himself under the control of the "United Nations", the United States must assert itself as never before if the situation is to be saved. Eighth, the federal administration and its lackeys on the Supreme court must cease the constant infringing tactics against the rights of states.

These aspects must come first from the Republican party leadership which will have to prove that the GOP stands for American interests before the interests of the world at large. It is impossible to finance the entire globe or even half of it. Unless the Republican party cleanses itself of the "Advance", it will continue to lose influence and will ultimately be defeated.

If it is defeated, or even by a miracle, is able to "hold its own", it must purge itself of these influences which are so far to the left as to render it unto destruction.

Every left wing influence must be eliminated. They must be thrown out immediately. Such, for the time, will mean a split of disaster proportions, but the GOP has been split before and it will survive again.

TO ONCE AGAIN PROGRESS, IT WILL HAVE TO UNDERGO A COMPLETE REORGANIZATION WITH THE LEFT WING, THE MARXISTS AND OTHERS RETURNED TO THE DEMOCRAT PARTY FROM WHENCE THEY CAME.

The American people voted the discredited Democrat party out of office in 1952 but that same party which now opposes the GOP on almost exactly the same planks as it was itself opposed is ready to win both houses of the Congress in this off year election.

In the face of world disaster, the administration refuses to regard the Communist menace at home as "dangerous" and throws boulders into the path of the Congressional sweeping machines. The instances are far too many to describe in one article but it is safe to say that the Republicans will go down to defeat, and they will possibly stay defeated unless there is a marked change for the better.

The American people are tired and just plain sick of the "Advance" led group which has subverted the Republican party into something it was never intended to be. The Republican party leaders are only now beginning to realize this.

A defeat at the polls might awaken them to the realities at hand.

Managed Farmers

Prominent in the many-pronged farm problem is the large acre diverted from major crops by government controls. This year there will be 30,000,000 acres on which cotton, wheat and corn can not be planted if the farmer stays within the support program.

Do the farmers let this land idle and subtract measurably from gross income? That isn't the nature of the farmer, who is now looking around for alternative crops. One is soybeans which may be planted this year on the largest scale in history. Fearful that a fiasco will develop in that field, government officials have recently reduced soybean supports from 90 per cent of parity to 80 per cent.

In California there is a movement afoot to plant diverted cotton acreage to watermelons. That would cause a melon glut.

Baboons are invading African villages. Perhaps they're trying to learn how the other half lives.

George Sokolsky

THESE DAYS

The Plight Of France

A propaganda leaflet, issued to inform Americans about France, concedes the influence of the Communists in that country, who received 5,400,000 votes, or 28 per cent, in the 1946 election; in 1951, it was 4,900,000 votes or 26 per cent. There has been no general election; in 1951. Discussing these figures, the pamphlet, issued by "Editions France Actuelle," makes the point:

"... On the basis of these figures, Americans sometimes tend to conclude that, in case of war with Russia, France could not defend herself effectively since much of her population (and presumably of her army) would side with the Soviet aggressors."

What is not said here is that in modern war, as is prepared and arranged before the war takes place is the real test. Granted that if France is invaded by a Soviet army, every Frenchman will be true to the Tricolor and would give his life for his country, too much is happening now and has happened since the end of World War II for his patriotism to be effective. France has rejected the necessity for full modernization industrially. France has been unwilling to fight adequately for its empire, a huge reservoir of manpower that has been useful in the last two wars. The defensive action in Indochina was largely the task of the Foreign Legion in which there are no Frenchmen but plenty of Germans.

It is not the character of the French people nor their loyalty that is brought into question in the current discussions. It is the fact that the Communists have gained so much power in France.

It was France that initiated the idea for a European Defense Community, M. Plevin, when he was premier, developed what came to be known as the Plevin plan out of which grew EDC. The essence of EDC is the creation of a European army, that is a European force, sufficiently large to hold the Russians at the river Elbe. A treaty was signed in Paris (1952) by France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg confirming the establishment of such an army. But France has never ratified this treaty and therefore it is not operative.

France now objects to certain organizational arrangements in this treaty, which, however, France negotiated and signed.

One reason given for France's attitude is:

"... Three times in the past seventy - five years France has been over - run by the German army. Her lands have been occupied; 2,200,000 of her sons have been killed. These events have left a heritage of suspicion and fear. Many Frenchmen who fought valiantly against the Germans find it hard to think of a European army in which they or their sons might take orders from German officers."

Of course, much has happened since France was invaded by Germany. For one thing, Germany is a divided country, the eastern half being controlled by Soviet Russia; secondly, unless a nation is Communistically inclined, it must accept the thesis that Soviet Russia and not Germany is the enemy of western civilization. Thirdly, the realistic question today is not whether Germany will ever gain enough strength to invade France but whether, if war should come, any force will be sufficiently powerful in Europe to withstand Russia.

Obviously, neither Germany nor France alone can create the divisions or the industrial establishment to withstand Russia's present army, but EDC, supported by the United States and Great Britain, can develop enormous strength. That is why EDC is a keystone of American policy and it must be said that the following sentence in the French propaganda does not make much sense at the present time:

"... Some Frenchmen fear that a rearmend Germany might be tempted to re-gain her eastern territories by force and that, through the European army, France might find herself an unwilling partner in such an adventure."

Even if Germany did seek to regain her eastern territories, as rightly Germany should, it would be like banging one's head against a stone wall unless Germany regained these territories as part of a general war. Alone, West Germany could no more regain East Germany than Chiang Kai-shek can take Shanghai.

The truth of the matter is that France is holding out because the Communist strength in France remains strong enough to impede, if not prevent, the ratification of the EDC treaty. Were it otherwise, in view of France's interest, the treaty would have been ratified.

Lights Over Broadway

Fame And Fortune

Walter Winchell is on vacation. Lee Remick will bring you New York Confidential.

News Item: The Main Stem's fabulous Monte Proser busts ankle while hosting at his new Play House Inn, Bucks County, Pa.

The Lowdown: Broadway is the place where characters are manufactured. If you are better at anything than anyone else, whether it is sitting on a flat pole, panhandling, gate-crashing, hopping coppers on the beaver or getting married, you acquire international fame — and fortune.

Little, likable Monte Proser, is the town's most successful character. He portrayed hardluck into moolah. In fact, into several piles of moolah.

When I first ran across him, which was a long time ago we don't talk about it. Monte held down a $12 a week job as press agent for the old Paramount Grill, which later became Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe. Hoofing at the spot were many pretty gals.

According to the legend (which Monte and his present ever-loving like to forget) he fell for a 15-year-old moppet named Julie Jenner. She was a pretty picon. As the story goes, he chased her unsuccessfully for years, carrying the brightest torch that ever illuminated Broadway. Finally, just to get rid of him (she later told me) Julie married him.

She was tiny, but a comphy brunette, correctly architected. You'd figure anyone lucky enough to have her would try to hold her, but not Monte. He was a character.

By now he was a chronic torch-bearer, than which no disease is more chronic. Instead of spending his evenings at home with the bride he had chased for so long, he sat at his old table at Dave's Blue Room and tearfully insisted "his wife didn't love him."

Monte was the champ of all time. He made the celebrated torches of history pale by comparison. Forgotten were the previous champion torches such as the late Earl Carroll for glorious Dorothy Knap and onetime showgirl Judy Malcolm's for Abe Lyman.

But his friends were afraid he'd starve to death. That's how Monte's torch turned into gold. Some smart guys raised a bankroll, set him up in the saloon business, capitalized on his publicity. What an attraction!

Years later, when he was associated with the Copacabana, the story finally came out. Monte had been acting all the time. He schemed it that way, he said, to take advantage of the torch-carrying fad which was then Broadway's current insanity, having succeeded to previous wave of midnight elopements, and itself having been succeeded by an epidemic of suicides. Some people put the latter two fads down as cause and effect.

While at the Copa Monte met and wed the real love of his life. She, like Julie, was a chorine, name of Jane Ball. After she went to Hollywood to become a star they discovered they couldn't live without each other. Now they are the proud possessors of a flock of lovely kids.

Monte always was a guy to bounce back and cash in on hard luck. The list of his famed disappointments includes a dance carnival at Madison Square Garden, the Beachcomber Restaurant on Broadway, a Cafe Theatre on the site of the old Paradise and a fancy supper club on Hollywood's glittering Sunset Strip, which as late as 1951 carried a sing reading "Opening positively in the Fall of 1948."

When Monte severed with the Copa he opened his own La Vie En Rose. Then more bad luck. Couple of months ago he lost the lease. Now he's got to move.

How Much My Own?

HOW much do you belong to me? ... What do I mean to you? ... Are you as faithful, darling, as ... I promise to be true? ... Are you convinced and confident ... And is your heart sincere? ... Will you be mine as much as time ... Beyond the longest year? ... My all is yours, if you are mine ... I cannot offer more ... What is your answer, darling, when ... I knock upon your door? ... It all depends upon your heart ... And how you feel towards me ... As much as we may share this life ... And all eternity ... I kneel before your feet but all ... Our life is us to you ... As much as you embrace me, love ... And promise to be true.

WORKING BOTH SIDES

LITTLE LIZ

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

The Intangible

To know how high a child should stand against the doorpost when he is such an age, to know when he should begin to read, are all helpful bits of information, but they are not all there is to rearing a child to useful maturity. Not by a long, long way.

The most important values in life are those that are not visible to the naked eye, to the touch of the hand, nor to the intelligence tests. They are the things of the spirit, and they are mighty. They can overcome seemingly impossible difficulties; they can rise above sorrow and belittled disappointment; they can, and they do, lift the despairing soul to where the vision of celestial heights drops the veil of scorn on the meanness, the littleness of so much of the important unimportant.

Consider greatness. It is of the spirit, never of the material. Look about today. Who are the great among us? Those who get headlines in the press because of their stupid use of what might have been blessings to them and many others? Great possessions do not create greatness. They can help if they are used in the service of greatness. Otherwise they become a curse.

The children of today live in a world strange even to the oldest person. Never have people known such a wealth of material goods. Rarely have the people of this nation been so beset by difficulties, many of them caused by a neglect of the intangible things of the spirit. We hear of trusted officials betraying their trust; we see men and women making light of their solemn marriage vows; we see drinking to excess on every hand. The accent of living seems to be placed on the trivial, the selfish even the immoral. All this must affect our children and young people to a greater extent than we can accept with complacency.

What, honestly, do we want our children to be, to do, to have? With our breath we say, the ideal. By our actions we declare the contrary. This attitude must, and does, affect youth. When parents drink, gamble, disregard laws in their daily lives, so will their children.

A town, a city, a nation, is composed of individuals. One by one we add our weight to the thinking and the acts of the community and the nation. Each one of us is important, then, to the spirit of this land. What we teach by our word and act becomes the way of life for our children, and for this nation.

It is time that we put material things, the cars, the television, the radio, the parties, the fashions and the "crowd" where they belong, in the rear and bring the intangible things of the soul out front. This for the sake of the youth of the land and for our country's safety.

If you want your infant to have confidence in you, handle him with a sure hand. Dr. Patri discusses the way to handle children in his latest P-17, "The Sure Hand." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, care of Monroe World, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

IN WASHINGTON

Charollaise Cattle

WASHINGTON—The controversy over the $1,000,000, 82-head herd of Charollaise cattle now quarantined at Lafayette heightened this week as a Department of Agriculture spokesman emphatically denied a claim that the failure of the Mexican government to issue an export permit for the cattle was the only bar to their legal entry into this country.

The plight of the herd, now resting in the hands of the Treasury Department, was brought to the attention of Congress earlier this month when Rep. Edward Hebert of New Orleans introduced a joint resolution authorizing Treasury Secretary Humphrey to determine the herd's health condition, and providing that this be done before its fate is decided upon. The Department of Agriculture has insisted that it has no tests to determine if the animals are carriers of the dreaded hoof and mouth disease and claims they were brought from areas where the disease existed.

Hebert urged that the cattle be allowed to remain in the United States for the improvement of the general cattle industry if they are found to be free of this disease. The Charollaise can be used as both dairy and beef animals.

Former Rep. James Domengaux of Lafayette, counsel for Alphe A. Broussard, also of Lafayette, one of two men now serving sentences for smuggling the cattle into this country, declared in a letter to Hebert, "The only reason Broussard was unable to get an American permit was because the Mexican government would not grant an export permit. Had he obtained the Mexican permit, the American permit would have been given because the cattle had been spot inspected on the order awaiting entry, all tests being made except the final dip test for ticks."

Informed of Domengaux's statement, Dr. M. R. Clarkson, administrator of the department's agricultural research service, who regards the animals as a health menace, remarked on the former congressman's "optimism," and added, "The cattle originated in the state of Puebla, Mexico, and were moved up to northern Mexico. It is true, as Mr. Domengaux states, that the hoof and mouth disease quarantine had been lifted from all of Mexico in September, 1952."

"However," he continued, "we were not permitting importation of animals from central and southern Mexico, despite the lifting of the quarantine. Some livestock could come from five or six northern states where United States local inspectors issued permits. Around 250,000 head of cattle came in this way. Also permitted were imports from central Mexico if prior permits had been issued—but no such permits were ever issued."

Dr. Clarkson said Broussard was denied a permit for animals from that area.

"For diplomatic reasons, we didn't tell him it was because of foot and mouth disease in the area but because of tick and other livestock disease hazards," Clarkson added.

In a memorandum entered in the Congressional Record by Hebert, it is claimed that Broussard was denied permission to bring the Charollaise into this country but was denied permission to bring a herd of 38 head of Charbray cattle from Puebla into this country.

It states, "The department denied this application not because these cattle came from an area where foot-and-mouth disease may have existed, since the Secretary had declared that all of Mexico was free of foot-and-mouth disease, but because they came from an area where cattle tick existed."

The Louisiana department of husbandry has protested the Hebert resolution. However, the New Orleans congressman stood firmly behind Domengaux, saying, "I believe him completely."

The memorandum entered by Hebert describes how Broussard sought government authority to import the cattle and declares they were thoroughly checked for disease while still on the Mexican side of the border.

According to Hebert, the herd has been periodically tested by state veterinarians and found to be free of any infectious disease. He believes that under law Humphrey should either mitigate penalties to the owner or order the cattle forfeited.

Domengaux challenged a statement by Dr. Clarkson that there are from 500 to 700 Charollaise cattle in the South.

Congressional Quarterly

Farm Debate Definitions

Parity is a formula to measure the purchasing power of farm prices. If a bushel of corn sells for 100 per cent of parity, the proceeds of that sale will buy the farmer as many Sunday neckties as the price of a bushel of corn bought during the base period. For commodities subject to old parity the base period is 1910-14, while for modern parity the base is the most recent 10 years. Transitional parity gradually bridges the gap between old and modern parity.

Basic commodities are wheat, corn, cotton, rice, peanuts, and tobacco, all of which have rigid supports at 90 per cent of parity. The administration wants the first five to have flexible supports beginning in 1955.

Rigid supports are a fixed guarantee. They do not fluctuate from the established level.

Flexible supports fluctuate within a specified range, depending on supply. The support level for a commodity rises as supply declines, and declines as supply rises.

Set - aside is a device to reduce the amount of surplus which would affect the flexible - supports formula. Specified quantities of certain surpluses would not be counted for purposes of computing the level of support within the flexible range.

Normal carryover is the quantity of a commodity, in excess of consumption, which is counted as reserve against possible shortages, rather than as surplus.

Diverted acreage is farm land which the farmer is required to take out of production of a crop in order to qualify for price supports. Acreage is restricted to limit production.

Cross - compliance is a regulation to require the farmer to comply with acreage restrictions on all controlled crops in order to get price supports on any.

Total acreage allotments restrict plantings of all cash crops—whether subject to individual acreage restrictions or not — on diverted acreage.

Resale is a device for reducing the government's requirements for facilities in which to store surpluses by extending crop loans. Farmers are paid storage fees if they keep commodities which they otherwise would turn over to the government as forfeited collateral on price - support loans.

Occupancy - guarantee contracts are agreements by which the government pledges to pay commercial warehousemen part of their loss if occupancy of expanded storage facilities falls below a specified level. The guarantee is designed to encourage expansion by reducing risk.

Congressional Ball Game

Box Score — "Legislation-scarred congressmen let down their hair, rolled up their sleeves, donned baseball suits and spiked shoes and sallied forth to do battle on the diamond. It was a tough game, going to five lengthy (and short - winded) innings ... Fighting (Rep. Al (Alfred D.) Siemienicki (D. N. J.)) hit a double at a crucial moment ... Final score: 2-1, with the Democrats the victors." — Rep. Harrison A. Williams, Jr. (D. N. J.), July 1 newsletter.

Cleveland Papers Please Copy — "They've got the Indian sign on us." — Rep. Glenn B. Davis (R. Wis.), losing patience in comment to CQ after Republicans' seventh loss in a row.

Deep Strategy — "Before the game the Democrats had bragged about all their new pitchers, but still when the chips were down they relied on (Rep. W. M.) Don Wheeler (D. Ga.), who had pitched them to victory the six previous times. Since Wheeler pitched a no-hitter it is hard to find fault with that strategy." — Rep. Robert D. Harrison (R. Neb.), June 30 newsletter.

Real Winners — "The real winners, of course, were the underprivileged children who go to summer camp on the proceeds of the game. We made more than $3,300, so about 100 youngsters will benefit as the result of our efforts." — Rep. A. S. Herlong, Jr. (D. Fla.), July 1 newsletter.

Oil Allowable Slashed To New Four-Year Low

BATON ROUGE, July 23 (AP) — Louisiana's monthly oil allowable was cut to its lowest level in four years today as a slumping market and competition from western oil states filled refinery storage tanks with unsold oil.

"Refineries have a worse storage problem now than ever before," said conservation commissioner John B. Hussey in announcing an August oil allowable of 612,690 barrels a day, a cut of 27,228 barrels from current production.

The allowable, which limits production of individual wells, is nearly 100,000 barrels below the all-time high of 708,844 barrels set in March last year and is the lowest since the 611,993 barrel limit of October, 1950.

Meanwhile, vice president Henry J. Voorhies of the Esso refinery here, announced the slump had caused curtailing of crude oil purchases from Mississippi and Alabama by 10 per cent, part of a general cutback for Esso's six East Coast refineries.

Hussey said the Louisiana allowable reduction was "part of a critical national situation" caused by over producing in recent years, plus increased outside competition, "particularly from the Rocky Mountain states."

The reduction from the July level was accomplished by changing the depth bracket, a system of setting individual allowables in proportion to the depth of the wells, rather than across the board cuts.

Only exception to the September cut, the commissioner said, will be wells in secondary recovery programs or other wells whose efficiency and ultimate recovery would be hurt by too great a reduction.

Previous cuts, he said, actually had helped wells produce more efficiently, "but now reductions have gotten to the point where efficiency is being hurt, particularly in wells that produce a great deal of water."

September allowables, by district:

Houma 139,505, Lafayette 138,196, Lake Charles 58,813, New Orleans 165,881, Monroe 51,075, Shreveport 58,220.

Will Conduct Week Revival Series

A revival will be initiated Sunday July 25 at the Marion Baptist Church and will continue through the week.

Rev. A. L. New, district missionary of the Louisiana Baptist Convention, will serve as evangelist. J. V. Armour, minister, music, of the same church will be the singer.

Services will be held at 9 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Friends of neighboring communities are urged to attend.

Highway Contract Awarded In Winn

DODSON, July 23. (Special) — The contract for the erection of the Brewton Mill - Dodson highway, Star route 328 in Wards 7 and 10, has been awarded T. T. Henry, of Dubach, and work is expected to begin soon. The low bid was for $87,685.00.

The Winn Parish project is 7.2 miles of asphalt cement surfacing and is one of the projects in five parishes on which bids were accepted by the Department of Highways. All bids accepted at the time totaled $282,613.

Sentencing Of Night Club Figures Put Off Pending Other Suits

CANTON, Miss., July 23 (AP) — Sentencing of two night club figures on charges of assault and aiming a deadly weapon was postponed until next week pending outcome of two similar suits, the sheriff's office said.

J. T. Phillips and Simpson Cross remain to be tried on charges growing out of "vigilante" raids on "night club row" in nearby Ridgeland last April.

Night club operator J. E. Alexander and employee Richard Head have been convicted.

Phillips and Simpson are scheduled to go on trial next week. They are charged with assault and battery.

All four were indicted on charges of assault and battery arising from fights between night club figures and citizens who threatened to shoot up the clubs unless they were closed.

Ridgeland is midway between Canton and Jackson. The night club area has served as a night playground for residents of the Capital city.

Day Camp Doin's

Visitor's day at the Girl Scout day camp was certainly a success, judging by the number of mamas and papas, brothers and sisters, friends and neighbors who drove out for a picnic supper and to join the campers in a final flag ceremony and campfire. Family groups chose picnic spots on the carpet of pine needles on the grounds and with a breeze blowing everybody seemed comfortable and happy.

At sunset the group, numbering more than a hundred, filed into a large circle around the flag pole for a color ceremony with a group from the Gypsy unit in charge. Linda Graham had the honor of being color bearer, while Judy Lee, Sue Hill, Charlotte Bedenbaugh, and Carol Ann McDonald were guards.

The group then gathered for singing led by Betty Hemphill, Yvonne Hucklebee and Eva Clare Noland, rounds, action songs, lively ones like, "A-Jogging Along" and "Walking at Night," and finally the good-night songs, "All Night, All day" and "Taps".

Almost every camper in the Gypsy and the Rambler units received cards stating that they had fulfilled requirements for the Adventurer and the Tree badges. The girls can take these cards to their troop leaders in the fall and receive their badges.

There are people in our community who think that there is no way to get to Pine Wood except in a cloud of dust. Remember the opening program three years ago when the Union Parish road crew had chosen the day before to grade the road? Well, Wednesday they did it again. We're glad they keep up the road, of course. They even help by grading the little road into camp when it needs it. We know at least one troop that can testify that it isn't always dusty. Troop 23 nearly always gets rained on when it goes camping. Wonder why we haven't thought of sending them out to break the drought? Pine Wood has had no rain yet.

Among the visitors was Anne Adams of Brownie Troop 18. Asked why she hadn't enrolled for camp, she said that she had been with her parents to Oklahoma and had attended a Girl Scout day camp there. Highlight of their camp, she reported, was an overnight, with the girls sleeping on the ground in bedrolls. Our Brownies thought that sounded wonderful, but that they had better sleep in a cabin first.

The closing event of the day camp is always an overnight for the intermediates who would like to stay, so Friday a group will go back and stay until Saturday morning. The girls had only one request—breadtwists for breakfast. Otherwise, they wanted a leisurely experience and a chance to do some of the things they didn't have time for during the camp season. They'll have fun.

Summer Is Right Time For Lazy, Easy Living

A change of pace is always refreshing. The change from regular life to summer living, from town to country, gives life color. Even if you cannot leave town in the summertime you can adopt the country summer mood when everything is simplified.

Many women have their hair cut much shorter for the warm months and then let it grow out in the fall. This is a great idea for two reasons. In the first place it is cooler. In the second, it is easier to manage after swimming.

If you wear your hair at usual length in the summer, give it an up-sweep for coolness. Of course the main thing is to have a simple hairdo which is easy to take care of.

In clothes we think of comfort and color first rather than of style and elegance. Shorts, swim suits, peddle pushers and play clothes, adorn us much of the time.

Why not take this summer relaxing habit of living over into your housekeeping? Take up the rug. It looks cooler anyway. Eat on trays on the porch, letting everyone help himself from the kitchen or dining room table. Take advantage of picnics, and for heavens sake use paper napkins and paper hand towels.

These changes will be attractive because they are different from your usual routines and habits. Every one of us must have some relaxation if we are to perform happily and efficiently. Use the summertime as a time of slowing up, of meeting each day in a vacation mood as compared to your everyday mood. Worry less. Hurry less. And exercise and rest and laugh more.

There is something about fall that sets us off again into that "in the harness" feeling, so enjoy the underlying lazy summer mood. Take advantage of it!

Miss Mississippi Beauty Finals In Jackson Tonight

JACKSON, Miss., July 23 (AP)—Lovely girls in bathing suits and evening dresses, getting weary but still smiling, went before judges for the second time tonight in the Miss Mississippi contest.

A group attended a contest tea today as judges studied their intellect and personality, part of the contest where beauty and body aren't everything—contrary to spectators' viewpoint.

The 23 girls each must be reasonably smart and have some talent in addition to looking good in a swim suit.

The winner in the finals tomorrow night will take the crown worn by Suzanne Dugger of Pica-yune and will enter the Miss America contest in Atlantic City, N.J., in September.

Two 18-year-old girls took early leads in the first night's judging last night.

Celeste Luckett, Miss Clarksdale, won the swim suit competition in one group. The tall—she's five feet, nine—lamb measures 37-24-37, all in curves.

Linda Martin, co-sponsored by the University of Mississippi and Calhoun City, won the talent contest with the song "One Kiss." The two groups of contestants swapped places tonight, trading swim suits for evening dresses and vice versa.

At 20 degrees Fahrenheit, the energy available from an automobile battery is only about 80 per cent of what is available at 40 degrees.

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: Some time ago I wrote you regarding the advisability of dating a man of 25, eight years older than I am. You suggested that I get out and meet people my own age, which I did. I've made some very good friends among my schoolmates, but the question of Rob (the 25-year-old) has come up again. As we have many mutual friends, we keep meeting at parties and dances. Gradually we have resumed dating. However, it seems that every date we have, whether for a dance, movie or drive, ends up with him parking the car and expecting a necking party. I have also heard that he has made comments to his friends about these dates. I really can't tell you how much I worry over small things like that, but then I guess my reputation is worth thinking about. What can I do?

BWARE

ANSWER: Just why you are seeking advice at this point is a mystery to me. You continue to attend parties where you know you'll meet Rob (in fact, I suspect that's the only reason you do go), you know perfectly well that every time you step into his car the inevitable necking party will take place and, what's more, Rob knows that you know—and probably expect—just what happens. Of course he's going to brag about his easy conquest of you, and I don't think you need to be told what the other boys will think of you. You state coyly that you "worry over small things like this." Well, girls usually don't regard their reputations as "small things." You may be sure that the evaluation you put on your own character will be accepted by everyone else, so don't waste time wondering if you suddenly discovered the nicer young people shunning you. You have put the "welcome" mat out for trouble, and if there's any way at all of piercing through your feigned or real stupidity, I urge you to do some quick changing before it's too late.

Pregnancy out of wedlock is no "small thing," and that's what you are headed for if you continue these parking expeditions. You are practically asking Rob to take advantage of you, and he doesn't seem to be the sort of young man to refuse the invitation. I've been blunt with you, Joan, but I hope either my words, or something else, will take the blinders off your moral sense before it's too late.

DEAR MISS DIX: My best friend is the same age as I am—16. She always says she doesn't like the boy I date but she finds "every excuse to go to the service station where he works to talk to him. Yet she criticizes every little gift he gives me and what he does."

A.L.

ANSWER: Read the fable of the Fox and the Grapes and you'll have the answer to your friend's curious behavior. Apparently she likes the boy herself, and is hoping that by continually finding fault with him, she may discourage your fondness for him. Don't let her get away with it.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am the mother of five children, and am expecting another. When I learned of this pregnancy, I remembered a letter you had a while back from a mother who was getting fed up with people ribbing her about a large family (she had five, too). I came in for my share of comment, but I never let it bother me. I always have a good answer for the ribbers, which makes them laugh and we all have a good time over it. I love my large family, hope to have many more children, and am convinced there would be less neurotic people in the world if there were more large families. My husband's job keeps us moving around, which adds to the complications of our lives, but also increases the fun.

Helen A.

ANSWER: With your good humor and cheery disposition you must be a source of pleasure for your family and your associates. Perhaps you are an inspiration, too, though you may not be aware of it. Women who are bogged down with the care of one or two youngsters couldn't get away with much complaining in your sunny company.

Don't Make Bridge Complicated Game

Don't look for anything complicated in today's hand. That was South's mistake when he first played the hand, and it led him only to defeat.

The bidding was a reasonable enough. West's overall was sound didn't hesitate to go to game. He had 15 points in high cards, 2 points for the singleton, and 1 point for the fifth spade after that suit had been raised. The total was 18 points, and North's free raise showed about 8 points as a minimum. Hence, the combined count was enough to yield a reasonable play for game.

West opened the eight of diamonds, and declarer won in his own hand in order to lead his singleton club toward the dummy. No beginner would have made this mistake. A beginner would have drawn trumps immediately, and he'd have been quite right.

When South actually led the club, West went up with the ace of clubs and led his remaining diamond. Now there was nothing South could do to make his contract. East was bound to get in with the ace of spades in time to lead a third diamond and thus give West a ruffing trick. West's ace of hearts has then the fourth defensive trick.

South would have made his contract if he had led trumps immediately. There was no hurry about tackling the clubs. If South draws trumps at the first possible chance the defenders cannot get a diamond ruff.

After South has drawn three rounds of trump, he can lead a club toward dummy's king and thus provide for an eventual discard of a losing heart on dummy's king of clubs. The point is not that the club lead is unnecessary but rather that it must be postponed until after the trumps have been drawn.

Delinquency Up 17 Per Cent In Past Five Years

Broken homes, world unrest, and "floating population" were tagged principal causes of delinquency among minors Thursday night by the head of a national organization devoting its program to the study of that problem.

Fred Ward, director for the national Probation and Parole association who is conducting a survey of Ouachita parish needs for a juvenile detention program, told Monroe Kiwanians that there has been "an increase of 17 per cent in juvenile delinquency during the past five years."

He said that these figures represent "only about 2 per cent of the juvenile population," but added that they are "a terrific problem."

Ward spoke during the regular Kiwanis meeting.

Delegates to the Kiwanis district convention to be held in Biloxi on Sept. 26-28 were named as Dave Agnew, Vernon McCoy, and Jimmy Plaisance. Alternates are Lawrence Pettit, Jim Bailey, and Ken Wallace.

Douglas Brothers, recently returned from the Kiwanis sponsored Key Club convention in Philadelphia, told the club of convention results. Key Clubs are sponsored by Kiwanis Clubs in high schools and aid students in their good citizenship programs.

GULFPORT GETS BOAT WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The Navy sent word to Congress today that it intends to give the city of Gulfport, Miss., a 36-foot vessel for use as a fire fighting boat.

Notice of such action is required by law. The Navy said the vessel has been concerned for its use.

YOUNG MEN

NATIONAL organization can place you in an attractive position where you can earn good money from now on. Most of our personnel earn more than $75 per week, and many men with just a few months' experience in this fascinating business are now earning $1000 to $1500 per year. This is a pleasant and interesting work. We do not care what type work you have been doing. If you enjoy talking with people, are neat, and are willing to work themselves into top positions with the company. If you are not satisfied with your present connections or earnings, you should investigate our proposition. Company of office is now in Monroe conducting personal interviews. See Mr. Nayrell at the Franchises Hotel, Thursday, Friday, or Saturday, 10 to 12 A.M. or 7 to 8 P.M.

Large Nationally Known RETAIL FOOD DISTRIBUTOR

Steels Higher In Irregular Market With Overall Rise

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—The stock market had an irregular time today but it managed in the end to advance and establish another new high mark.

Steels were a higher feature as they were yesterday while merger rumors persisted as a market factor.

The names of Bethlehem and Youngstown Steel continued to be linked without confirmation. Bethlehem closed up 1/4 at 74 3/4 and Youngstown ended up 1/4 at 54 1/4, both under their best. They were strong yesterday.

Trading started fast with prices higher. Quite a number of low-priced issues hit the tape in large blocks and vied with the steels for attention.

By the second hour, a retreat started that carried prices a shade lower. A late reversal brought prices up on average by a small margin.

In the final hour, a new group of low-priced shares came to life and held to some fairly good gains. A spread of 2 points covered the range of change. Most major divisions were mixed, actually, with few standing either higher or lower with emphasis.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks gained 20 cents at $131.40. That is its second straight new high and the best since Oct. 22, 1929.

The industrial component of the average was up 50 cents at a new high of $177.50, rails were ahead 10 cents, while the utilities declined 10 cents.

The market was quite broad—1,223 issues. There were 425 advancing and 424 declining with 155 new highs and 6 new lows for the year recorded during the session.

Volume was good at 2,520,000 shares compared with 2,890,000 shares traded yesterday when the market was strong.

The bond market was narrowly mixed in selective trading. U. S. government bonds were unchanged to nominally lower.

Cotton

New York

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 25 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher in slow trading today.

Failure of private crop surveys this week to indicate any appreciable damage to cotton from the dry hot spell and forecasts of scattered weekend showers over most of Texas with lower temperatures brought some selling into futures.

The market displayed mild rallying tendencies at times on trade and commission house buying, but there was no follow through to the demand.

Some of the buying in October and later months was attributed to chart followers. One broker purchased about 7,500 bales of nearby October contracts. Hedge selling was in evidence, but spot firms did not press offerings.

The situation in cotton textiles and cotton exports was quiet.

Cotton Letter

NEW YORK, July 23 — Futures backed and filled in light trading today and prices closed about unchanged from the previous day.

A moderate amount of hedging plus commission house profit taking caused declines of around 6 to 8 points shortly after the opening.

There seemed to be trade support around that level and local short covering helped values advance towards the close. There was early price fixing in October which declined near the close. At least one spot firm was a fair buyer of October and December against the sale of March early in the session.

Our Fresno office reports that San Joaquin Valley progresses as excellent and the cotton about 3 weeks early. There is indication there may be picking by mid-September. Very little contracting is being done as producers are matching the loan.

During the past 24 hours there have been reports of scattered rains in New Mexico, north-central and northwest Texas, Georgia, Memphis and Dallas report thundershowers are forecast for this evening, and Texas is expecting a cool front to move in.

Unfixed call sales for the week ending July 16 increased 31,800 bales to 1,007,400 vs. 948,100 a year ago. Of these 210,600 bales were based on October, 368,000 on December and 217,700 on March. Unfixed call purchases declined 3,300 bales totaling 88,100 against 132,900 last year. There were 49,800 bales in October and 21,900 in December.
